DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is in response to Applicant's RCE, filed on 9/15/2004.
2. Claims 1-23 are pending.

ALLOWABLE SUBJECT MATTER

3. Claims 18-23 are allowed over the prior art of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371⁹ of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

5. Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (e) as being anticipated by Herz (U.S. Pat. No. 6,460,036).

As per claims 1, 3, 5-8, and 11 Herz discloses a customized electronic identification of desirable objects, such as news articles, in an electronic media environment, and in particular to a system that automatically constructs both a target profile for each target object in the electronic media based (which is readable as Applicant's claimed invention wherein it is stated that a method for enabling targeted information retrieval while protecting consumer privacy) comprising:

providing a plurality of elements of information (see., abstract, specifically target objects, col 1, lines 18-43, col 6, lines 63-67, col 7, lines 1-12);

specifying a negotiant function designed to accept a plurality of elements of data associated with a consumer as input and produce an information request as output, said information request designating at least one element of information to present to the consumer from among a plurality of elements of information (see., col 39, lines 47-60, specifically wherein it is stated that in order to negotiate the release of user-specific information and credentials, server s4 may require server s2 to supply credentials proving that the user or consumer is entitled to the information requested, for example, proving that the user or consumer is a subscriber in good standing to a particular information service); and distributing the negotiant function to a consumer for executing by said consumer (see., col 39, lines 47-65, specifically wherein it is stated that proxy server s2 has sent a message to a server s4 and server s4 has created a response M2 to message M1 to be sent to the user).

As per claim 2, Herz discloses the claimed method of receiving the information request from said consumer, said information request produced by the negotiant function (see., col 39, lines 47-65, specifically wherein it is stated that in order to negotiate the release of user-specific information and credentials, server s4 may require server s2 to supply credentials proving that the user or consumer is entitled to the information requested, for example, proving that the user is a subscriber in good standing to a particular information service); transmitting the at least one element of information to the consumer in response to the information request (see., col 39, lines 47-65, specifically wherein it is stated that proxy server s2 has sent a message to a server s4 and server s4 has created a response M2 to message M1 to be sent to the user or consumer).

As per claim 4, Herz discloses the claimed method wherein said negotiant function is designed to accept a plurality of elements of data associated with a consumer as input (see., abstract, please note that plurality of elements or target objects, col 1, lines 18-43, col 6, lines 63-67, col 7, lines 1-12).

As per claims 9, 10, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, and 17, Herz discloses the claimed method of encrypting the plurality of information requests; and aggregating a plurality of request pair v1 said plurality of request pair having a sequence, each of said plurality of request pairs comprising an encrypted information request and a consumer identifier (see., abstract, col 1, lines 18-43, specifically cryptographic based proxy server).

REMARKS

6. In response to Applicant's arguments filed on 9/15/2004, Applicant argues that Herz does not teach or suggest:

a. " distributing the negotiant function to a consumer for execution by said consumer".

Based upon foregoing rejection indicated above, it is believed that Herz discloses this limitation in col 39, lines 47-65, col 40, lines 1-67, specifically wherein said proxy server S2 has sent a message to a server S4 and server S4 has created a response M2 to message M1 to be sent to the user. This process is to negotiate the release of user-specific information and credentials from proxy server S2, and therefore readable as distributing the negotiant function to a consumer or user.

b. " executing said negotiant function to generate the information request". However, the Examiner respectfully disagrees since Herz discloses this limitation in col 39, lines 45-67, specifically wherein said negotiate the release of user-specific information from proxy server S2 to a server S4 and S4 has created a response M2 to message M1 to be sent to the user or consumer.
